MONTHLY COMMENTARY

Our fund benchmark, the FTSE EPRA/NAREIT Developed Net Rental Index, recorded a net total USD return of -3.10% in October. The best performing listed real estate market was Japan, which recorded a total USD return of -1.30%. Hong Kong recorded the lowest total USD return for the month of -8.26%.

Recent global headlines have again raised concerns over the state of troubled department stores as the month saw Sears Holdings file for Chapter 11 bankruptcy in the U.S., while Debenhams reported intentions to close a third of their stores in the U.K. We therefore thought it would be interesting to look further into the department store model, the impact of these brick-and-mortar closures on the listed real estate landlords and some of the likely differences across geographies.

The struggling department store is by no means a new concept. Traditional department stores have been losing market share to other retailers and retail channels for some years now, including discount/off-price retailers; mass merchants such as Walmart, and of course to e-commerce. However, department stores have generally been slow to adopt online channels, invest the capital expenditure required into their stores, or have been hesitant to reduce their footprint via store closures.

The impact of an anchor closing on a shopping centre or mall will vary depending on a few factors, including but not limited to 1.) How the anchor drives traffic to the overall centre; 2.) How the closing of the anchor will impact the leasing of the surrounding line-shops (who generally pay significantly higher rents per square foot); 3.) If there are any co-tenancy lease provisions (that allow tenants to terminate their leases or pay less rent should an anchor vacate the centre); 4.) How the anchor impacts the financing of the centre since anchor stability is a primary determinant of mall financing; and 5.) The size of the anchor and vacant space required to be let.

There is likely too much department store space across the globe and the space required from these retailers will shrink over time. The magnitude and rate of closures will impact short term fundamentals as landlords deal with the vacancies and re-tenanting the space. Our thesis is that better quality retail locations and management teams will fare best, with poorer quality retail destinations ultimately becoming irrelevant over time as e-commerce continues to capture market share. Based on current fundamentals we prefer high-quality landlords in the U.S. versus the U.K.

Global real estate fundamentals overall remain healthy, mainly due to manageable supply levels relative to demand, with an improved economic growth outlook. Taking the estimated forward FAD (Funds Available for Distribution) yield of 5.01%, and medium-term growth prospects into account, listed real estate currently looks fairly valued on a risk-adjusted basis.

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

This specialist fund offers real estate focus, with global diversification. The real estate focus is through real estate securities with a specific bias towards stocks classified as investors, as opposed to developers. The investor classification is defined as those stocks that have 70% or more of their income derived from rent. The guiding principle is the ownership of real estate assets, primarily to earn rental related income streams which provide a stable underpin to long term returns. Global diversification is across geographic regions, currencies, countries and real estate types. The intention is to provide an attractive risk-adjusted return to form part of a multi asset class portfolio. The fund benchmark is the FTSE EPRA/NAREIT Developed Rental Index, which comprises of stocks in the following regions: United States, Canada, UK, Europe, Japan, Hong Kong, Singapore, Australia and New Zealand.

DISCLAIMER

Collective Investment Schemes in Securities (CIS) should be considered as medium to long-term investments. The value may go up as well as down and past performance is not necessarily a guide to future performance. CISs are traded at the ruling price and can engage in scrip lending and borrowing. The collective investment scheme may borrow up to 10% of the market value of the portfolio to bridge insufficient liquidity. A schedule of fees, charges and maximum commissions is available on request from the Manager. There is no guarantee in respect of capital or returns in a portfolio. A CIS may be closed to new investors in order for it to be managed more efficiently in accordance with its mandate. CIS prices are calculated on a net asset basis, which is the total value of all the assets in the portfolio including any income accruals and less any permissible deductions (brokerage, STT, VAT, auditor's fees, bank charges, trustee and custodian fees and the annual management fee) from the portfolio divided by the number of participatory interests (units) in issue. Forward pricing is used. The Fund's Total Expense Ratio (TER) reflects the percentage of the average Net Asset Value (NAV) of the portfolio that was incurred as charges, levies and fees related to the management of the portfolio. A higher TER does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low TER imply a good return. The current TER cannot be regarded as an indication of future TER's. During the phase in period TER's do not include information gathered over a full year. Transaction Costs (TC) is the percentage of the value of the Fund incurred as costs relating to the buying and selling of the Fund's underlying assets. Transaction costs are a necessary cost in administering the Fund and impacts Fund returns. It should not be considered in isolation as returns may be impacted by many other factors over time including market returns, the type of Fund, investment decisions of the investment manager and the TER. The Catalyst Global Real Estate RE Prescient Feeder Fund has a Total Expense Ratio of 2.31%. For the period from 1 July 2017 to 30 June 2018, 2.31% of the average Net Asset Value of the portfolio was incurred as charges, levies, fees related to the management of the portfolio. A Feeder Fund is a portfolio that invests in a single portfolio of a collective investment scheme which levies its own charges and which could result in a higher fee structure for the feeder fund. Where a current yield has been included for Funds that derive its income primarily from interest bearing income, the yield is a weighted average yield of all underlying interest bearing instruments as at the last day of the month. This yield is subject to change as market rates and underlying investments change. The Manager retains full legal responsibility for any third-party named portfolio. Where foreign securities are included in a portfolio there may be potential constraints on liquidity and the repatriation of funds, macroeconomic risks, political risks, foreign exchange risks, tax risks, settlement risks; and potential limitations on the availability of market information. The investor acknowledges the inherent risk associated with the selected investments and that there are no guarantees. Please note that all documents, notifications of deposit, investment, redemption and switch applications must be received by Prescient by or before 13:00 (SA), to be transacted at the net asset value price for that day. Where all required documentation is not received before the stated cut off time Prescient shall not be obliged to transact at the net asset value price as agreed to. Funds are priced at either 3pm or 5pm depending on the nature of the Fund. Prices are published daily and are available on the Prescient website. Performance has been calculated using net NAV to NAV numbers with income reinvested. The performance for each period shown reflects the return for investors who have been fully invested for that period. Individual investor performance may differ as a result of initial fees, the actual investment date, the date of reinvestments and dividend withholding tax. Full performance calculations are available from the manager on request. For any additional information such as fund prices, brochures and application forms please go to www.catalyst.co.za.
