MONTHLY COMMENTARY

In a climate of anticipated global economic slowdown, we thought it pertinent to briefly touch on some of the growth drivers of global listed real estate over the medium term.

To start with, many global real estate sectors remain under-rented, which means that the current rent being charged is below market rent levels. Upon lease expiry, the landlord can mark the rent to market resulting in a positive rent reversion and upwards rent growth. An under-rented situation arises when market rent levels grow more than in-place lease escalations over the term of the lease, where escalations generally grow in-line with inflation. Many leases that were signed coming out of the global financial crisis were struck at relatively low market rental levels and are only coming up for renewal now. This should result in positive reversions on renewal.

Another growth driver is management's ability to create value by appropriately allocating capital to accretive external growth opportunities (acquisitions or development) and harvesting capital through asset disposals. To achieve maximum value creation, a landlord should endeavour to sell assets at the highest value/lowest yield and acquire or develop assets at the lowest cost/highest yield. In a period of low cap rates and high asset values, acquiring assets may be a costly exercise when compared to development, where yields are generally higher and should ideally provide an adequate spread over funding costs to compensate for the increased risk of development. Landlords that sell ex-growth assets at low cap rates and recycle these proceeds into higher yielding, accretive development create growth and value for shareholders.

The ability to lock-in long term debt during periods of low interest rates compounds the abovementioned growth drivers due to the effect of financial leverage. Most global management teams have taken advantage of the low interest rate environment to fix out interest costs in anticipation of rising rates.

Although some real estate sectors are still growing, the above factors are a few to illustrate how listed real estate companies can increase their earnings even during periods of slowing or moderating growth.

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

Source of data: Bloomberg, Company Information and Catalyst Fund Managers

This specialist fund offers real estate focus, with global diversification. The real estate focus is through real estate securities with a specific bias towards stocks classified as investors, as opposed to developers. The investor classification is defined as those stocks that have 70% or more of their income derived from rent. The guiding principle is the ownership of real estate assets, primarily to earn rental related income streams which provide a stable underpin to long term returns. Global diversification is across geographic regions, currencies, countries and real estate types. The intention is to provide an attractive risk-adjusted return to form part of a multi asset class portfolio. The fund benchmark is the FTSE EPRA/NAREIT Developed Rental Index, which comprises of stocks in the following regions: United States,

Income Distribution	The interest and/or dividend income that is generated by the underlying investments in the Fund and that is declared and distributed to investors in the Fund periodically.

SPECIFIC FUND RISK

Foreign Investment risk:	Foreign securities investments may be subject to risks pertaining to overseas jurisdictions and markets, including (but not limited to) local liquidity, macroeconomic, political, tax, settlement risks and currency fluctuations.
Property risk:	Investments in real estate securities can carry the same risks as investing directly in real estate itself. Real estate prices move in response to a variety of factors, including local, regional and national economic and political conditions, interest rates and tax considerations.
Currency exchange risk:	Changes in the relative values of individual currencies may adversely affect the value of investments and any related income.
Geographic / Sector risk:	For investments primarily concentrated in specific countries, geographical regions and/or industry sectors, their resulting value may decrease whilst portfolios more broadly invested might grow.
Equity investment risk:	Value of equities (e.g. shares) and equity-related investments may vary according to company profits and future prospects as well as more general market factors. In the event of a company default (e.g. bankruptcy), the owners of their equity rank last in terms of any financial payment from that company.

DISCLAIMER

Collective Investment Schemes in Securities (CIS) should be considered as medium to long-term investments. The value may go up as well as down and past performance is not necessarily a guide to future performance. CISs are traded at the ruling price and can engage in scrip lending and borrowing. The collective investment scheme may borrow up to 10% of the market value of the portfolio to bridge insufficient liquidity. A schedule of fees, charges and maximum commissions is available on request from the Manager. There is no guarantee in respect of capital or returns in a portfolio. A CIS may be closed to new investors in order for it to be managed more efficiently in accordance with its mandate. CIS prices are calculated on a net asset basis, which is the total value of all the assets in the portfolio including any income accruals and less any permissible deductions (brokerage, STT, VAT, auditor's fees, bank charges, trustee and custodian fees and the annual management fee) from the portfolio divided by the number of participatory interests (units) in issue. Forward pricing is used. The Fund's Total Expense Ratio (TER) reflects the percentage of the average Net Asset Value (NAV) of the portfolio that was incurred as charges, levies and fees related to the management of the portfolio. A higher TER does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low TER imply a good return. The current TER cannot be regarded as an indication of future TERs. During the phase in period TERs do not include information gathered over a full year. Transaction Costs(TC) is the percentage of the value of the Fund incurred as costs relating to the buying and selling of the Fund's underlying assets. Transaction costs are a necessary cost in administering the Fund and impacts Fund returns. It should not be considered in isolation as returns may be impacted by many other factors over time including market returns, the type of Fund, investment decisions of the investment manager and the TER. The Catalyst Global Real Estate RE Prescient Feeder Fund has a Total Expense Ratio of 1.45%. For the period from 1 January 2018 to 31 December 2018, 1.45% of the average Net Asset Value of the portfolio was incurred as charges, levies, fees related to the management of the portfolio.. A Feeder Fund is a portfolio that invests in a single portfolio of a collective investment scheme which levies its own charges and which could result in a higher fee structure for the feeder fund. Where a current yield has been included for Funds that derive its income primarily from interest bearing income, the yield is a weighted average yield of all underlying interest bearing instruments as at the last day of the month. This yield is subject to change as market rates and underlying investments change. The Manager retains full legal responsibility for any third-party named portfolio. Where foreign securities are included in a portfolio there may be potential constraints on liquidity and the repatriation of funds, macroeconomic risks, political risks, foreign exchange risks, tax risks, settlement risks; and potential limitations on the availability of market information. The investor acknowledges the inherent risk associated with the selected investments and that there are no guarantees. Please note that all documents, notifications of deposit, investment, redemption and switch applications must be received by Prescient by or before 13:00 (SA), to be transacted at the net asset value price for that day. Where all required documentation is not received before the stated cut off time Prescient shall not be obliged to transact at the net asset value price as agreed to. Funds are priced at either 3pm or 5pm depending on the nature of the Fund. Prices are published daily and are available on the Prescient website. Performance has been calculated using net NAV to NAV numbers with income reinvested. The performance for each period shown reflects the return for investors who have been fully invested for that period. Individual investor performance may differ as a result of initial fees, the actual investment date, the date of reinvestments and dividend withholding tax. Full performance calculations are available from the manager on request. For any additional information such as fund prices, brochures and application forms please go to www.catalyst.co.za.
